Future skills

Hang Seng Future Skills Fund

Programme Period: Mar 2022 to present

Objective: To fund non-subvented non-governmental organisations (NGOs) to deliver new programmes / services that will enhance the skill sets of their beneficiaries to help individuals grow and thrive as 'future-ready' members of the community and further enhance Hong Kong's entrepreneurial spirit and competitive edge.

Partner: The Hong Kong Council of Social Service

Target Audience: Non-subvented NGOs

Details: The Fund will provide financial support for selected NGOs to implement new community projects and services that will equip their service users with future skills. These may include knowledge and skills such as financial and digital literacy and climate change awareness. Ten organisations will be granted by the Fund and each of them will receive HK$220,000 to implement a one-year future skills project.

Impact: The Fund encourages NGOs to be creative and flexible in developing projects that are tailor-made to the specific needs of their target beneficiaries. The selected projects will allow beneficiaries to develop their ability and knowledge on future skills and enhance their resilience for better preparation of future challenges and opportunities.
