Importance of early retirement planning

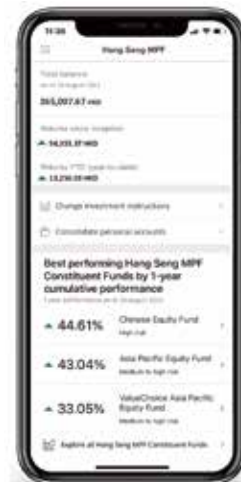

A good retirement saving requires your long term dedication and active management of your MPF account. In our example, Ms Yu and Mr Lee both put aside HKD1,000 each month for their retirement and the outcome can be very different. Ms Yu has a higher return compare to Mr Lee if the annualised rate of return is 1.2%. The difference gets even bigger if the annualised rate of return is 4.3%.

	Ms Yu	Mr Lee
Age	25	45
Years to retirement	40	20
Monthly contribution (HKD)	1,000	1,000
Total contributions (HKD)	480,000	240,000
Total amount at retirement (HKD, investing at a return of 1.2% p.a.)	615,687	271,097
Total amount at retirement (HKD, investing at a return of 4.3% p.a.)	1,274,619	379,404

MPF is a long-term retirement planning, you should consider your risk tolerance level before choosing your investment portfolio.

The annualised net rate of return of the MPF system since inception was 4.3% according to the MPF Schemes Statistical Digest (December 2021) by MPFA. The consumer price inflation rate in January 2022 is 1.2% according to the Census and Statistics Department.
