KEY RISK FACTORS

Before deciding whether or not to invest in the HS FXI25 ETF, you should consider if investment in the HS FXI25 ETF is a suitable investment for you in terms of your financial situation, investment experience and investment objectives. You should read the offering documents of the HS FXI25 ETF (including the full text of the risk factors stated therein) in detail before making any investment decision. Please note that investment involve risks (including the possibility of loss of the capital invested), prices of Units in the HS FXI25 ETF may go up as well as down and past performance information presented is not indicative of future performance. In addition, you should avoid excessive investment in any single type of investment (in terms of its proportion of your overall investment portfolio) including any proposed investment in the HS FXI25 ETF so as to avoid your investment portfolio being over-exposed to any particular investment risk. You should also read in detail the Hong Kong Offering Document and consider all the risks of investing in the HS FXI25 ETF. Generally speaking, such risks include but are not limited to:

- To the extent that the index tracked by the HS FXI25 ETF (i.e. the FTSE/Xinhua China 25 Index) concentrates in the securities of a particular industry or group of industries, the Manager may similarly concentrate HS FXI25 ETF's investment. HS FXI25 ETF's performance could be heavily affected by the performance of that industry or group of industries.
- Like other Index-tracking funds, the HS FXI25 ETF is passively managed. The Manager does not have the discretion to select stocks individually or to take defensive positions in declining market. Hence, any fall in the Index will result in a corresponding fall in the value of the HS FXI25 ETF.
- No assurance can be given that the performance of the HS FXI25 ETF will be identical to the performance of the Index.

- In tracking the Index, the HS FXI25 ETF will be investing in the constituent stocks of the Index with reference to their respective weightings in the Index. Certain constituent stocks of the Index are shares of PRC companies which have substantial business exposure to growth opportunities in the PRC. Thus, investors in the HS FXI25 ETF are subject to the risks of investing in emerging markets generally and in particular, all risks specific to investments associated with the PRC market.
- Although the HS FXI25 ETF Units are listed on the SEHK, the HS FXI25 ETF Units may be delisted from the SEHK. In such circumstances, the Manager may, in consultation with the Trustee, seek the relevant regulator's prior approval to operate the HS FXI25 ETF as a traditional index fund and will notify the investors accordingly. Alternatively, the Manager may liquidate the HS FXI25 ETF if the Trustee deems it to be in the best interests of investors and will notify the investors accordingly. Investors would then receive NAV per Unit (which may be higher or lower than the amount (per Unit) paid by the investors at the time of original investment) as of the date of liquidation as a result of the Manager having to liquidate all of the HS FXI25 ETF's investments.
