

Are you looking for more capital flexibility or even leverage up your FX investment? Hang Seng FX and Precious Metal Margin Trading Services may be your choice.

Besides long and short to capture opportunities amid market ups and downs in the extended trading hours, covering major global FX markets around the clock, most importantly you can leverage your investment amount up to 15 times to boost your investment power. You can enjoy great capital flexibility to capture opportunities from FX price movements to magnify your return, no matter whether the market is going up or down. Say, if you are bearish on the EUR, and expect it to depreciate, you can leverage the investment amount tenfold of your collateral deposit

For example, if your collateral deposit is HKD100,000, your investment capital will be magnified to HKD1,000,000 or its foreign currency equivalent. Then you can build a short position in EUR/HKD, i.e. short EUR, long HKD. Now, let me show you how to trade via our online platform. At Hang Seng Personal e-Banking, click “Investments”, and then “FX And Precious Metal Margin Trading Services”. Via this professional trading platform, choose “Sell EUR” in the selected currency pair “EUR/HKD”. Then choose the “Investment Amount” and “Lot Size”, and it’s done.

Take note that for the position here, the short EUR balance is subject to an interest charge in the EUR, while the long HKD balance will accrue interest in the HKD. After a period of time, if the EUR really depreciates as you expected, and you decide to square the position, you will make a profit. If the EUR/HKD exchange rate is lower than the initial level, say by 1%, a 10 times leverage will magnify your profit equal to 10% of the collateral balance.

On the contrary, if the market goes against your expectation, you will suffer a loss scale up with leverage used. Also, remember to keep an eye on your account balance. your open positions will be automatically closed-out if you don’t have sufficient fund to cover the margin requirement.
