Stay Alert in Investment of A-Shares

Defrauding Tricks

Recently, there are scammers impersonating investment specialists and inviting members of the public to join their investment classroom groups through SMS messages and instant messaging applications, offering inside information, low risk and high return as baits. The public were lured into clicking on the unknown link to download a fraudulent "A-shares" mobile application or enter a fraudulent "A-shares" website for setting up an account. Subsequently, the scammers asked them to transfer their principal to unidentified personal bank accounts.

The scammers would deliver a small return or send fake interest distribution reports through the investment application/ website for initial transactions, tricking the victims into believing them. After the victims invested more, the scammers fled with the money.

The public are invited to tune in to the RTHK news programme called "一桶金之財經新思維" broadcast on 25 April 2023, in which Mofiz Chan, the Chairman of Hong Kong Securities & Futures Professionals Association, shared with audience some reminders about investment of A-shares.
